Congratulations to our Pakis Social Entrepreneurship finalists and winner! We received over 80 competitive applications and narrowed the competition down to these finalists who were each awarded $7,500 to take their ideas to the next level for the final pitch event. These teams competed for the grand prize on February 4 at ASU’s Spark Tank and the winner will be named the 2016 Pakis Entrepreneur and received $20,000 in grant funding, close mentorship from the Pakis Family Foundation, and acceptance into one of the SEEDSPOT programs.

2016 Pakis Social Entrepreneurship Finalists

Humanity X Technologies
Has developed ARKHumanity, an analytical platform that detects suicidal messages on social media. Once a crisis message is uncovered, our trained volunteers and behavioral healthcare providers reach out to help.

33 Buckets
33 Buckets is a team with a vision of empowering people around the world to lift themselves out of poverty by improving access to clean water through sustainable design, distribution, and education. 33 Buckets travels to impoverished communities and provides local schools with the education and tools required to establish small businesses based on effective clean water distribution.

2016 Pakis Social Entrepreneurship Winner

All Walks Project
All Walks Project trains student Volunteer Mentors to provide trauma-informed mentorship on life skills to survivors of domestic sex trafficking. Our student chapters educate college students about domestic sex trafficking and teach them to be Awareness Ambassadors for the community.